

Breffni Smith

Breffni has worked in libraries for over twenty years in a variety of roles including rare books cataloguer, systems librarian, teaching and learning librarian, and most recently clinical librarian managing a hospital library. Her areas of interest include teaching information skills, research methods, literature searching, collection development, and team leadership. She is a member of the LAI and EAHL, and has previously been a HSLG Committee member as Communications Officer and conference organiser. She would like to provide mentoring to support others to develop their potential and achieve their goals in the profession.